When your balance is negative the application suggests that you re-arrange your Agenda. In order to get help with re-arranging your agenda, the application provides you suggestions. Simply click on the button Suggestions in the tab Agenda to see them. If re-arranging your agenda is not enough, you can do a few things: lower the budgets of certain categories, lower your savingsgoal, lower your recurring expenses and/or try to increase your income.

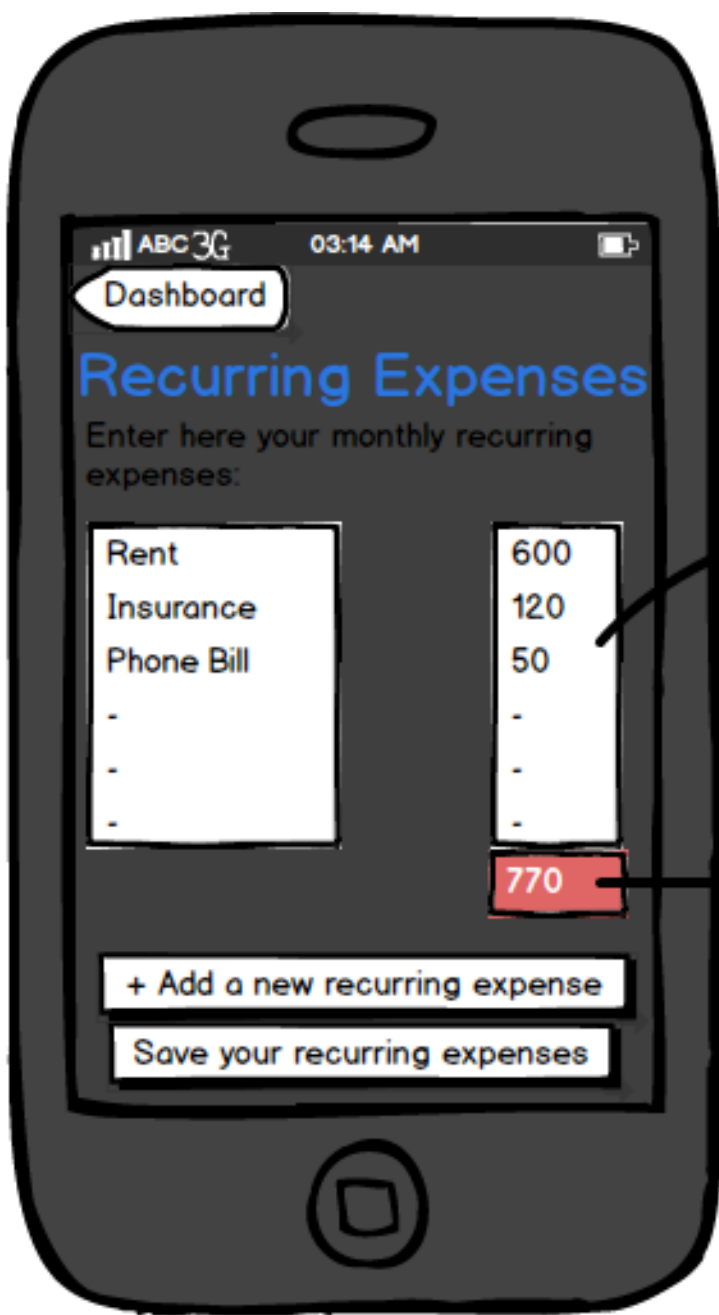

A button to add an expense quickly
This helps you when you are in a hurry.

These numbers can be edited at any time.

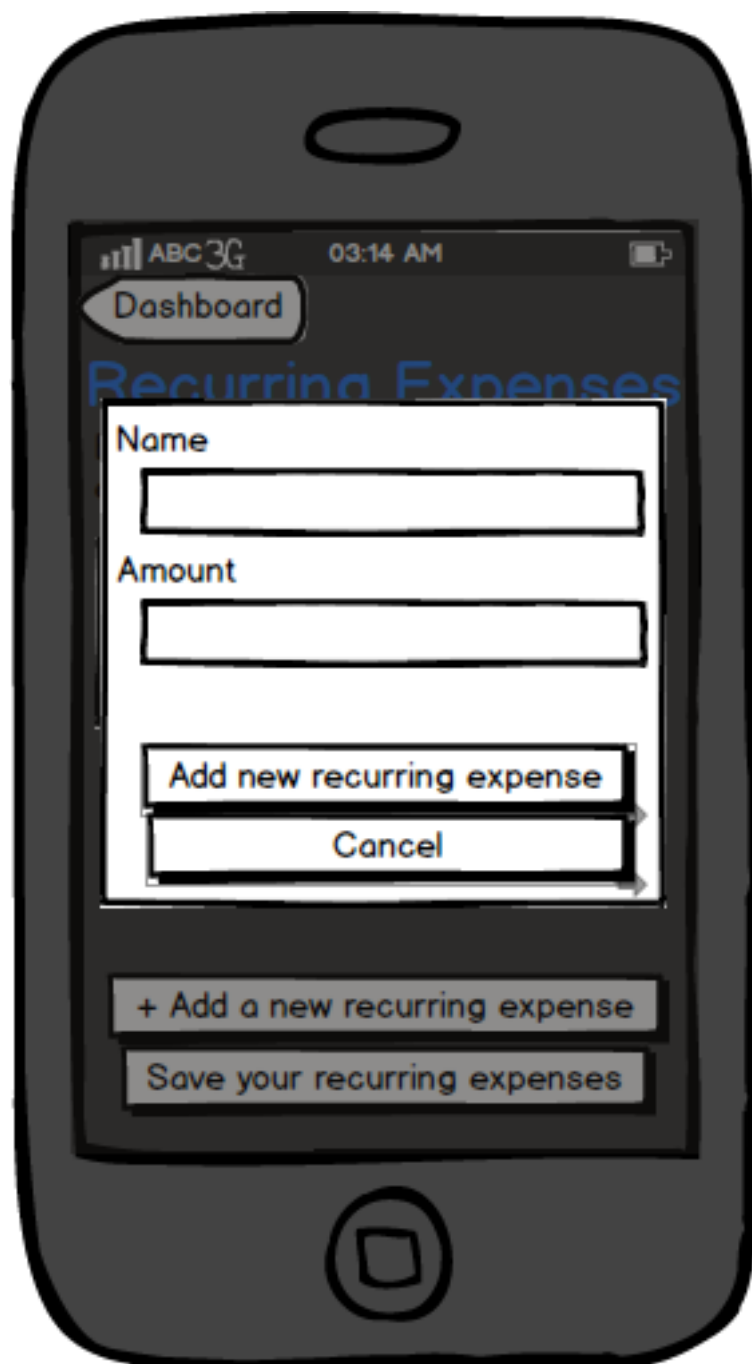

When the budget settings are saved, this number will appear at Dashboard.

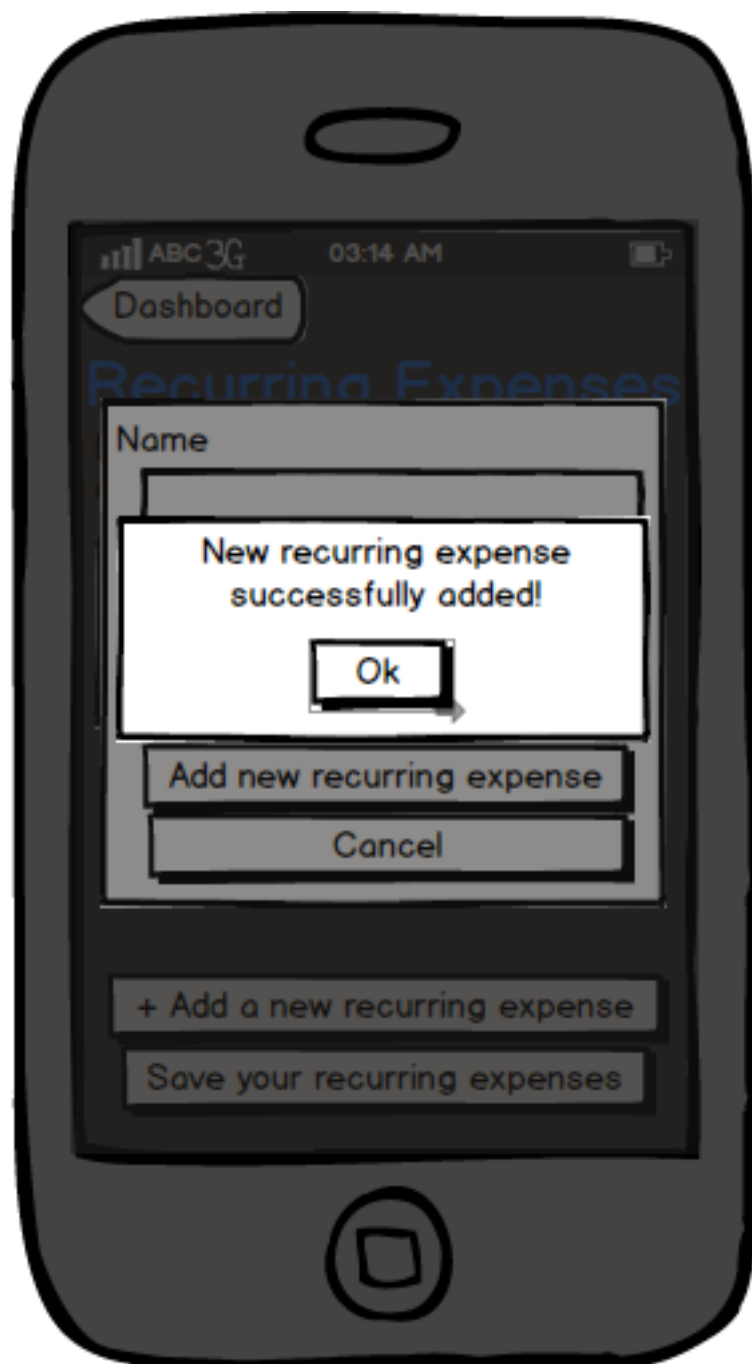

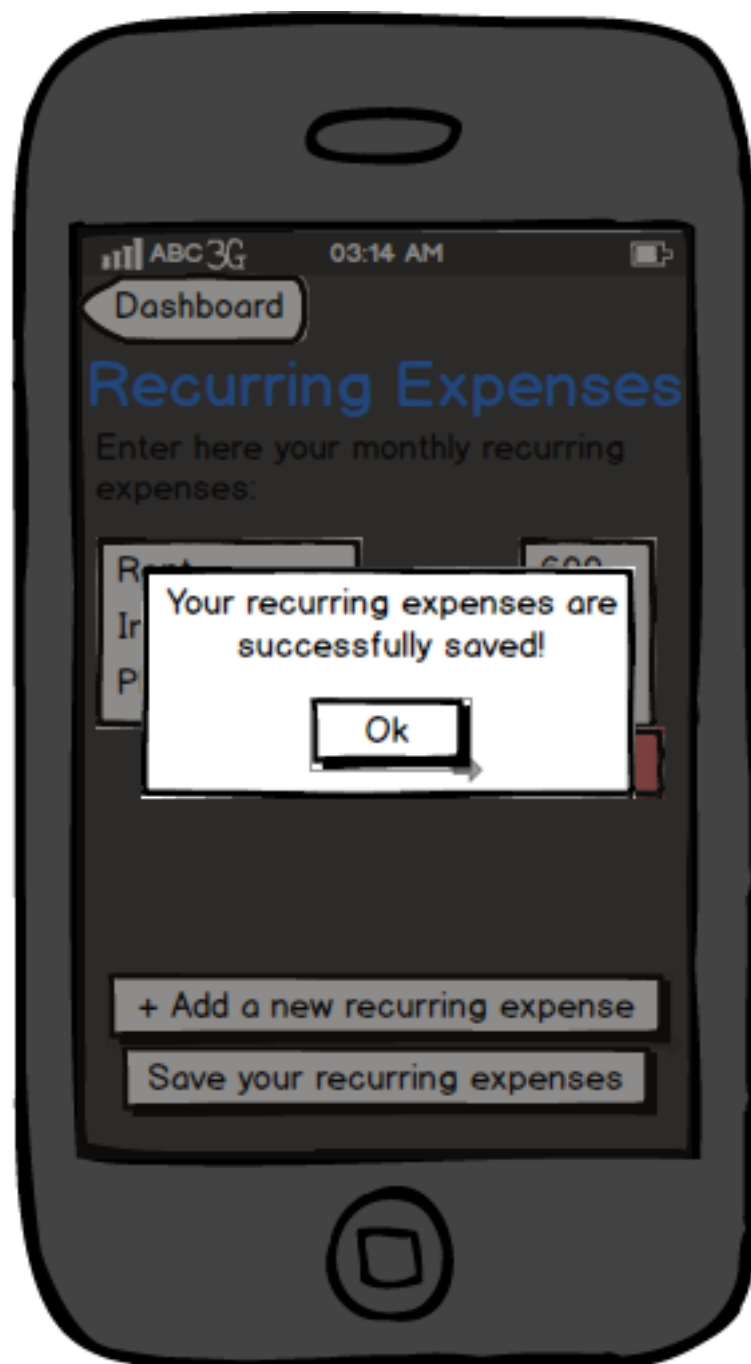

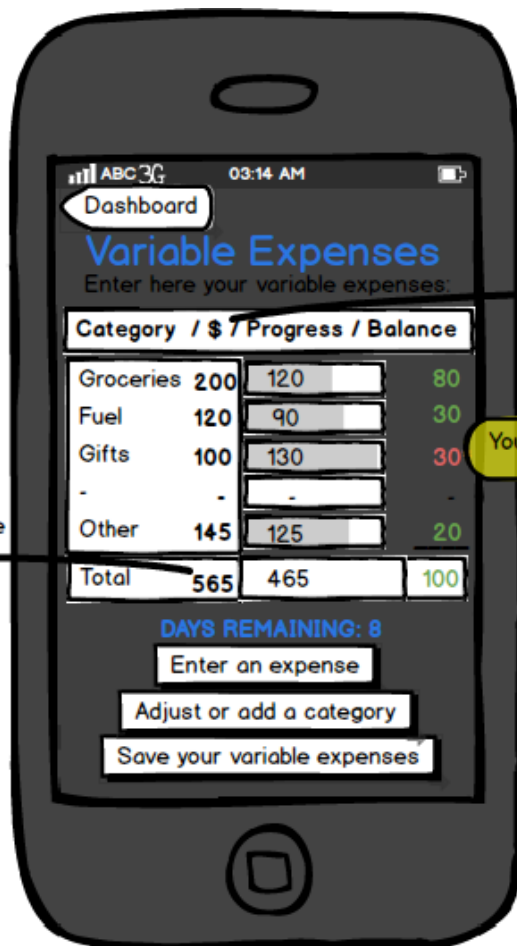

All these recurring expenses can be deleted or edited at any time.

When recurring expenses are saved, this number appears in Dashboard.

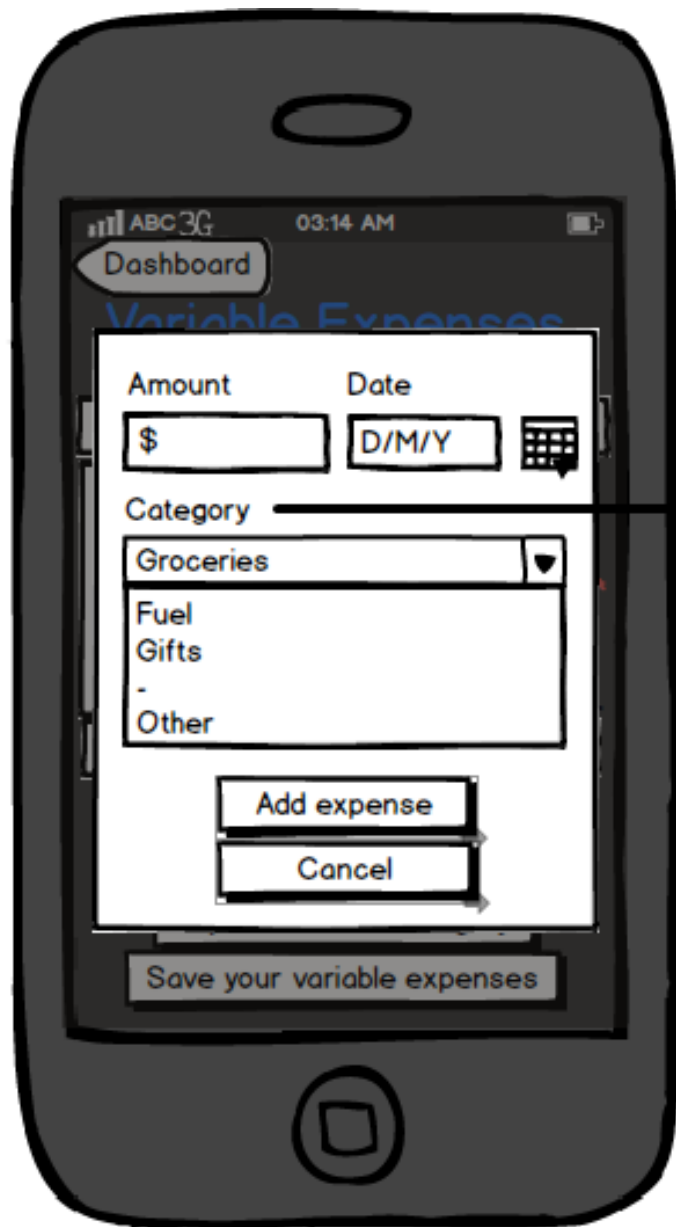

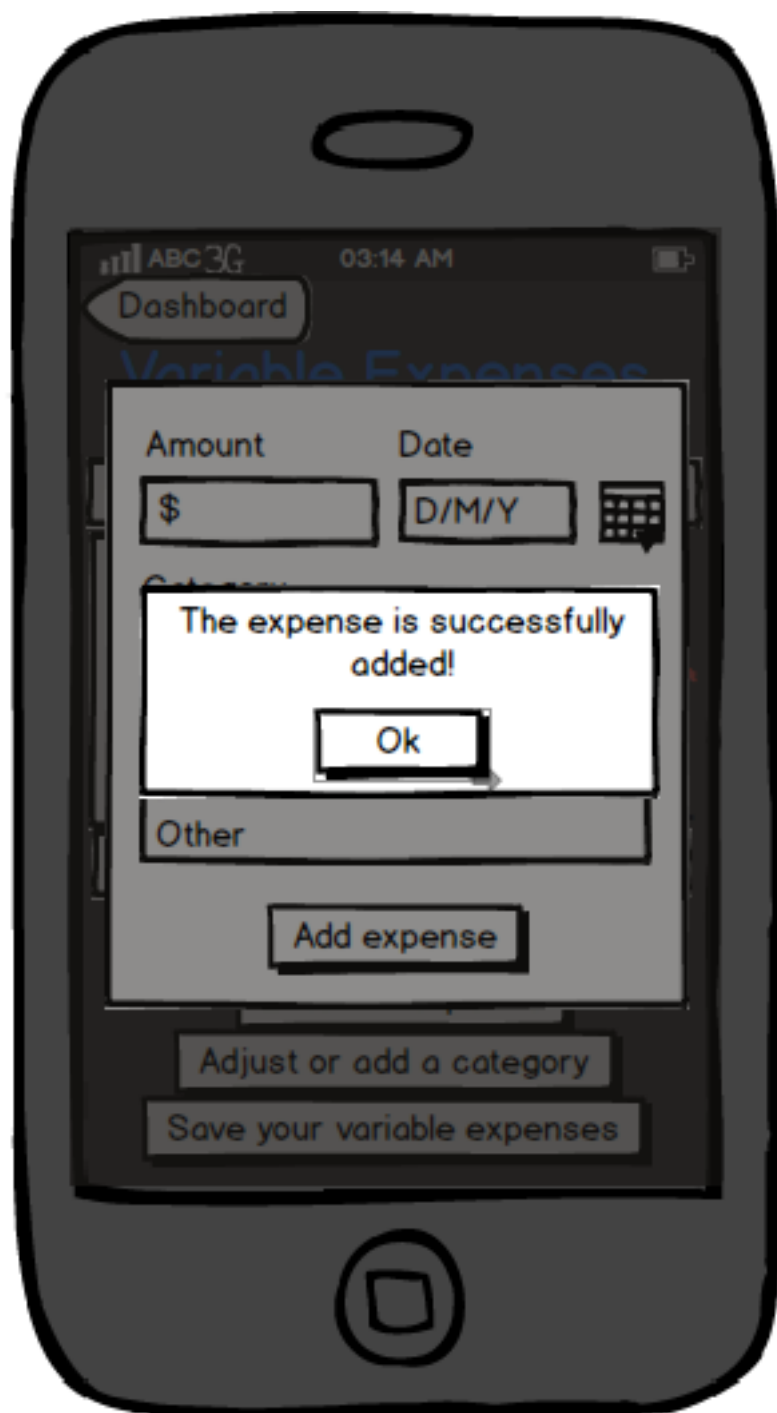

When you enter/create a category the application will also ask you to make a budget for this category. This can be deleted or adjusted at any time with the button: Adjust or add a category.

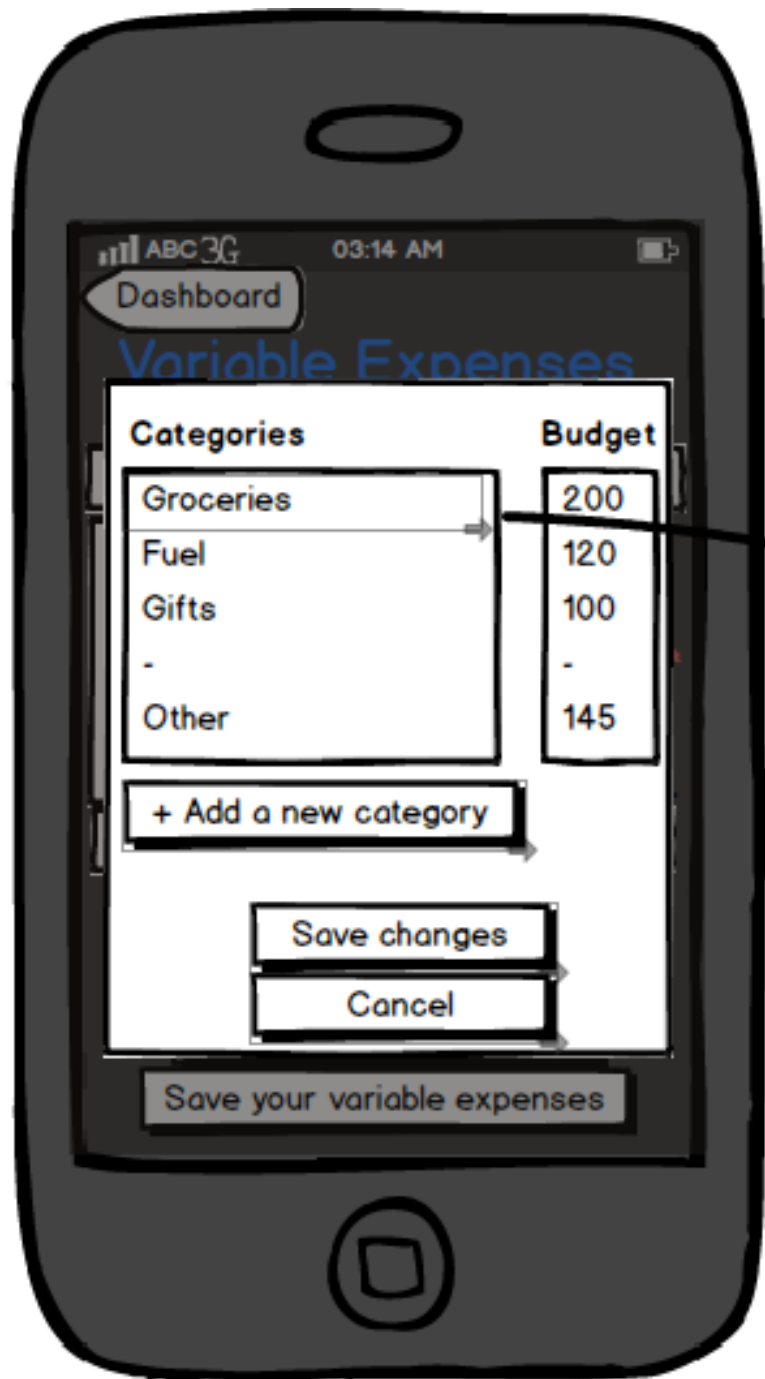

You are over budget for this category, try to spend less on gifts or change the budget.

This number is the total budget for the variable expenses set by you. If you are within budget, this number appears in Dashboard, but if you go over your variable expenses budget the number at progress will appear in Dashboard (which will be higher).

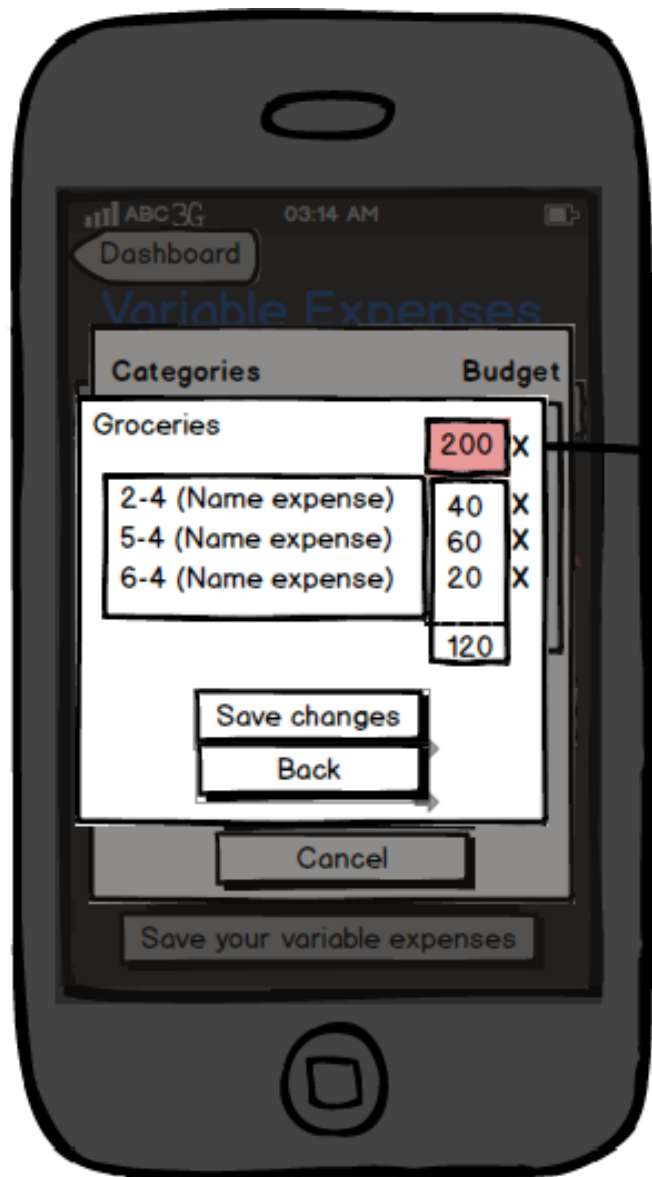

When an expense is added it will automatically adjust the number progress of the selected category. This will show in the Variable Expenses screen.

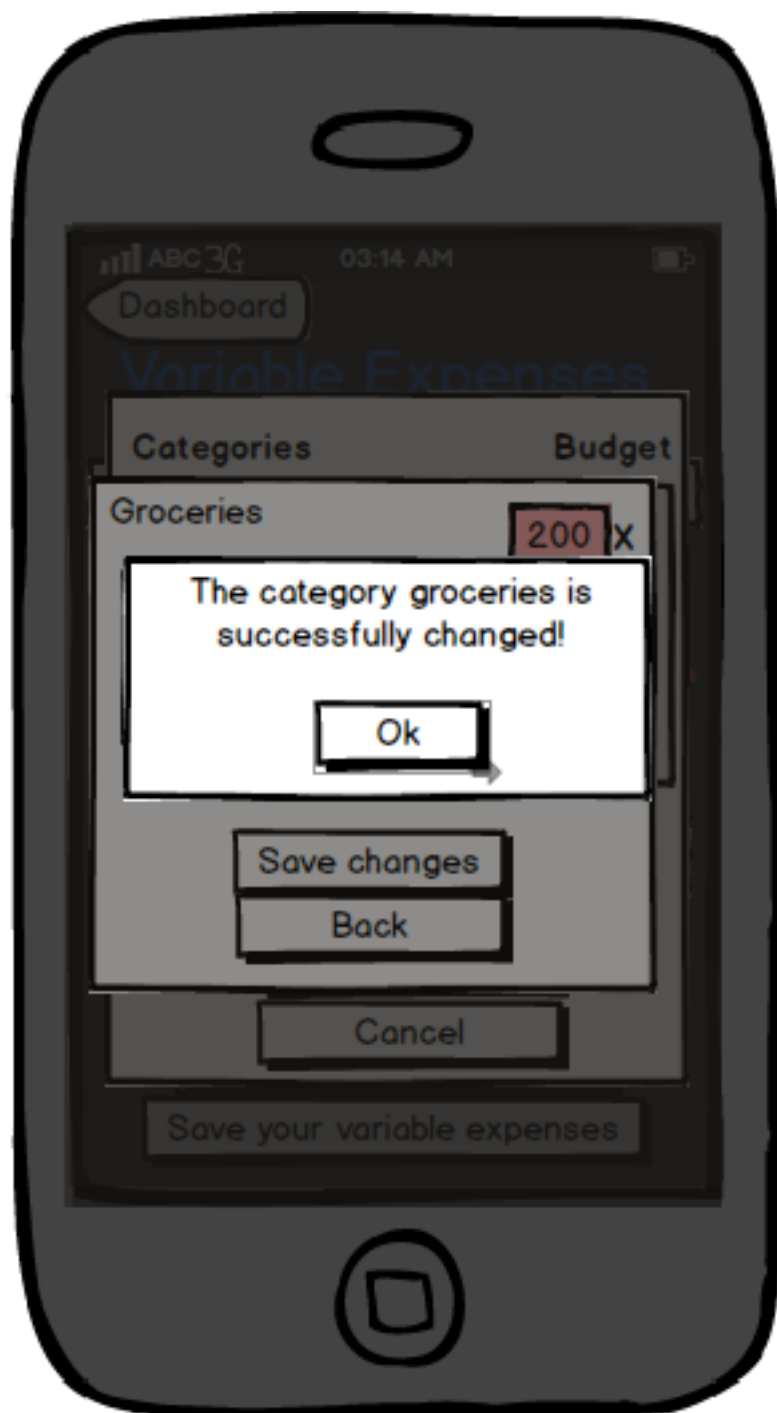

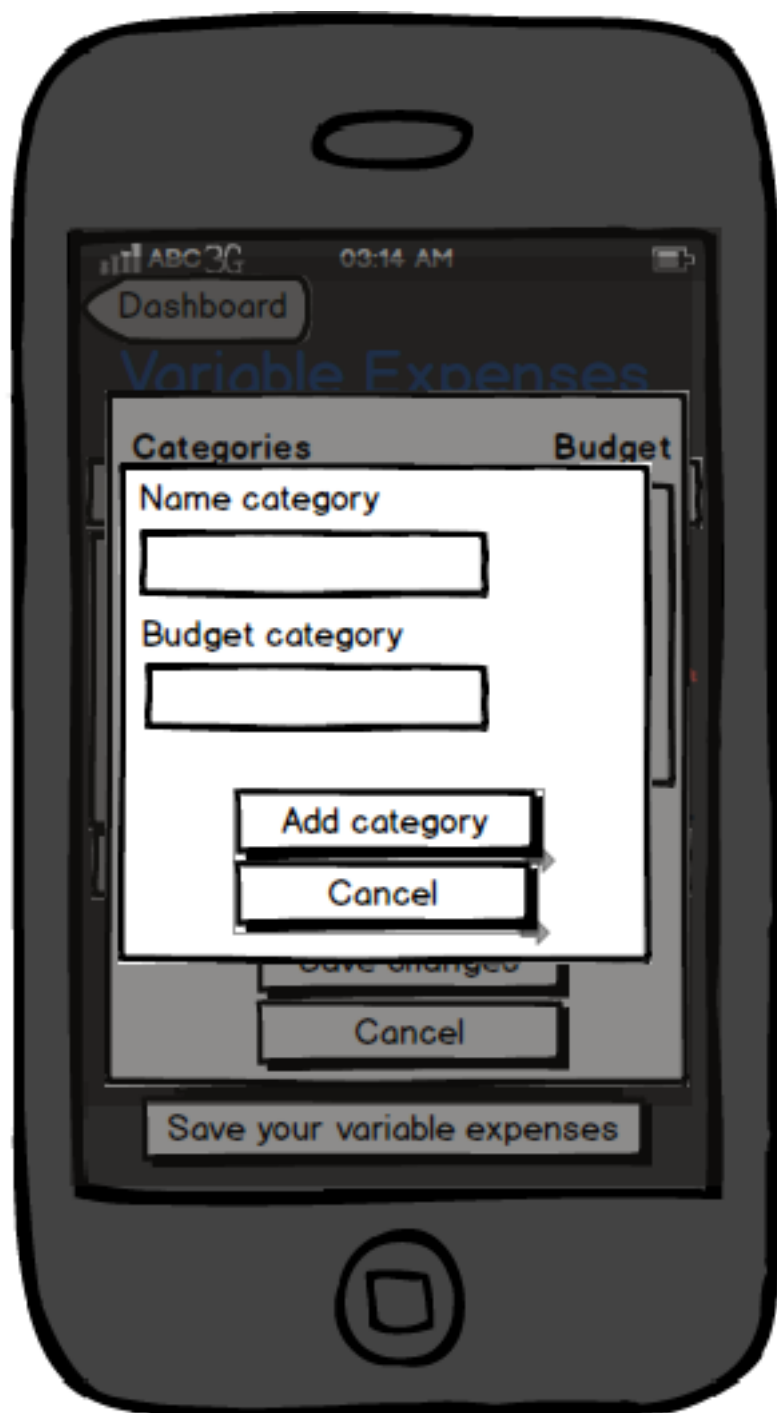

You can look and adjust a category by clicking on it. Click at groceries to see this. The other categories would be able to do the same.

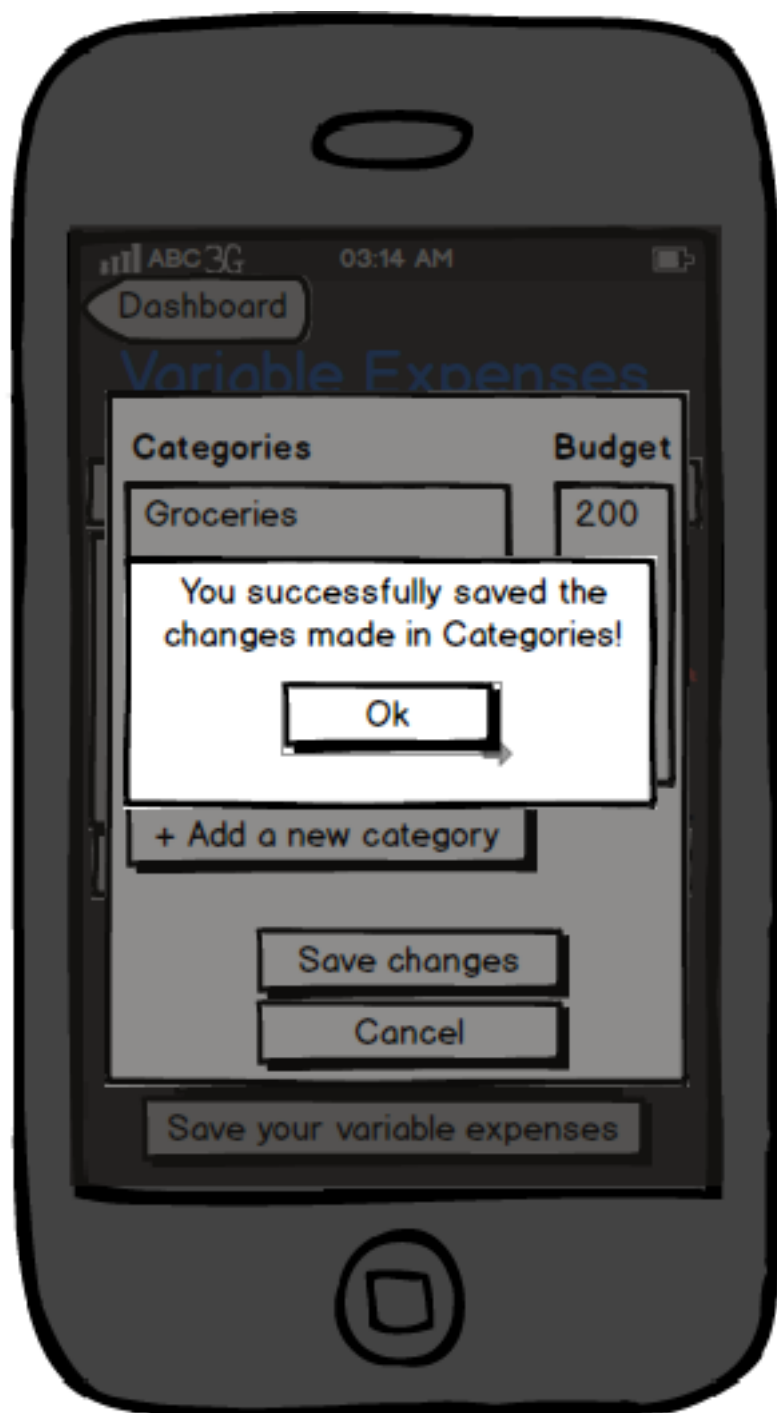

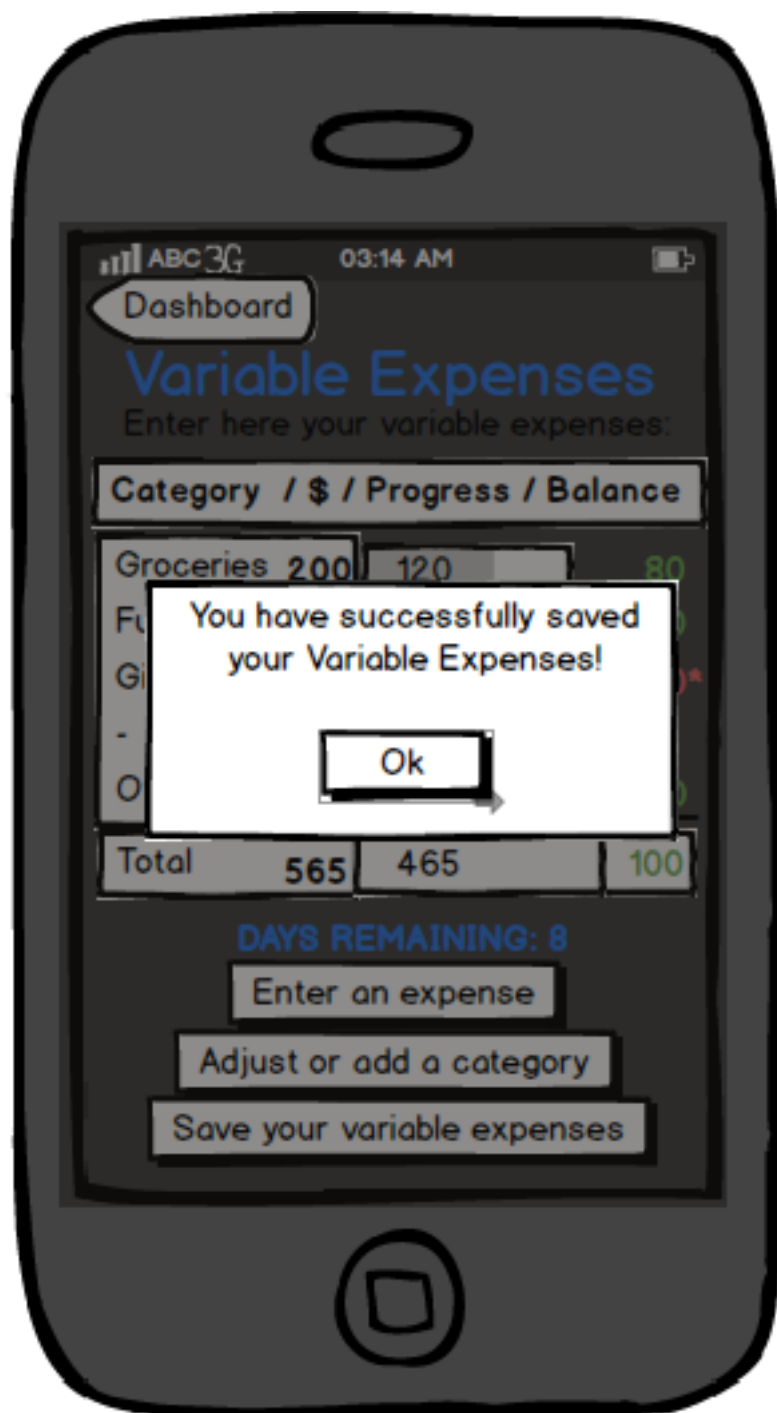

You can delete or adjust a complete category or delete or adjust expenses in this category.

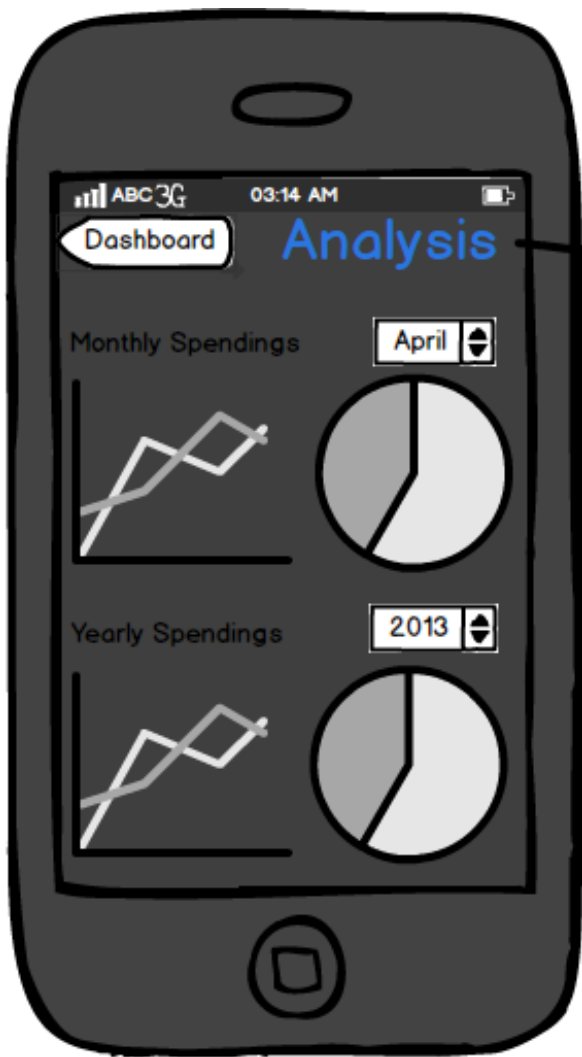

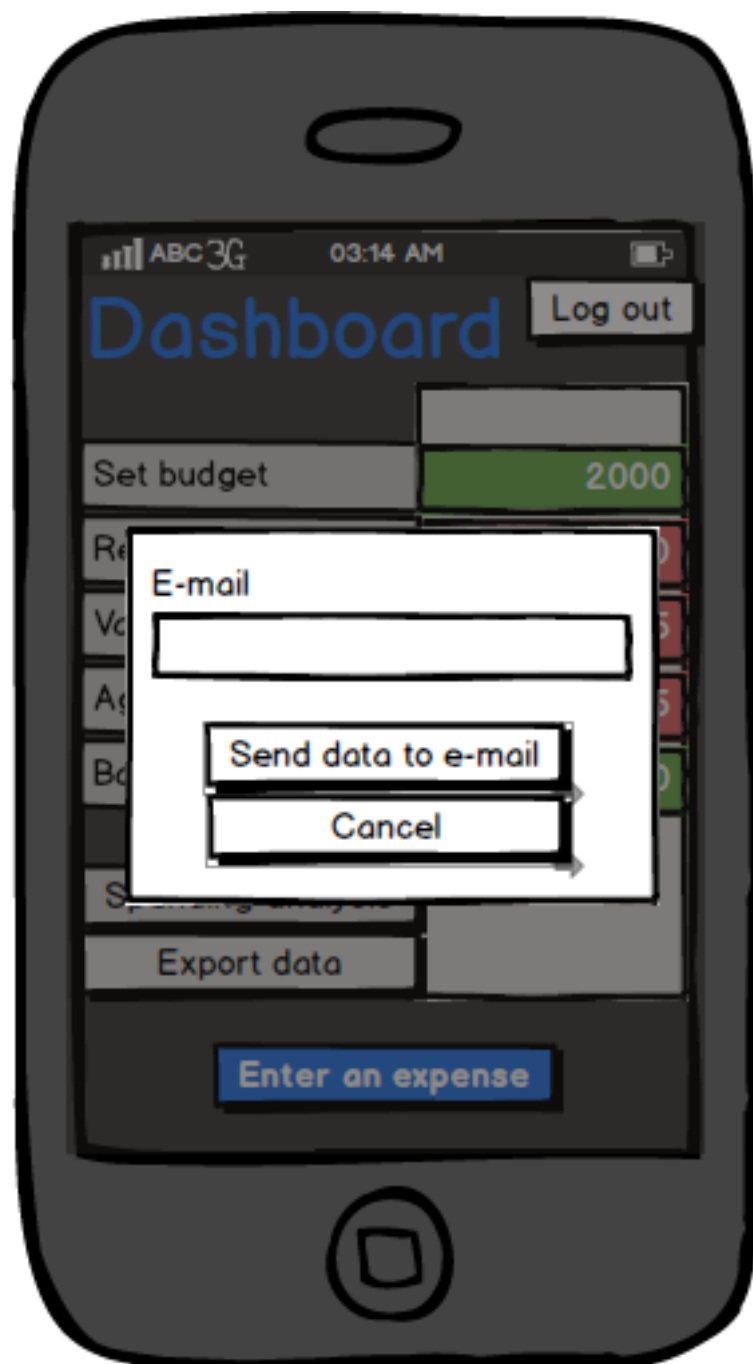

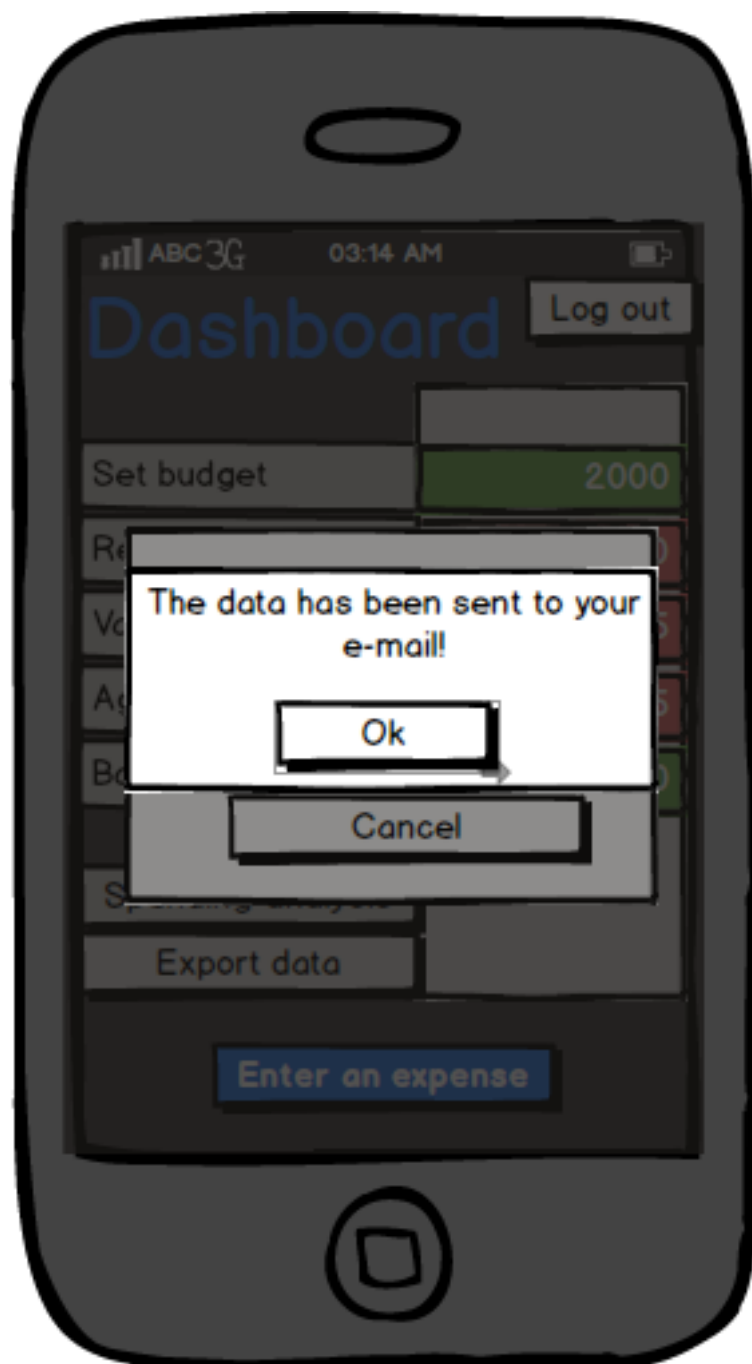

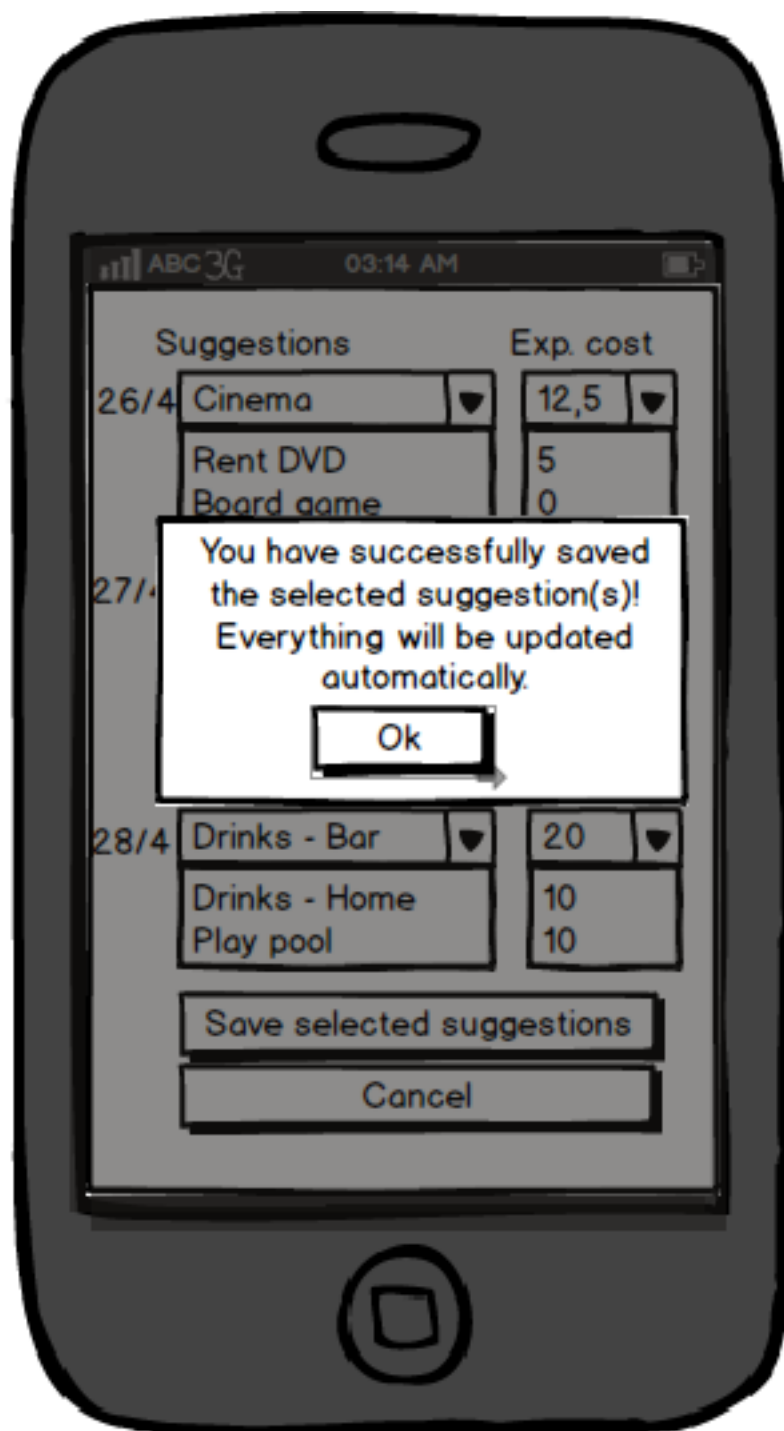

Here will be different type of charts that show people how they spend their money.

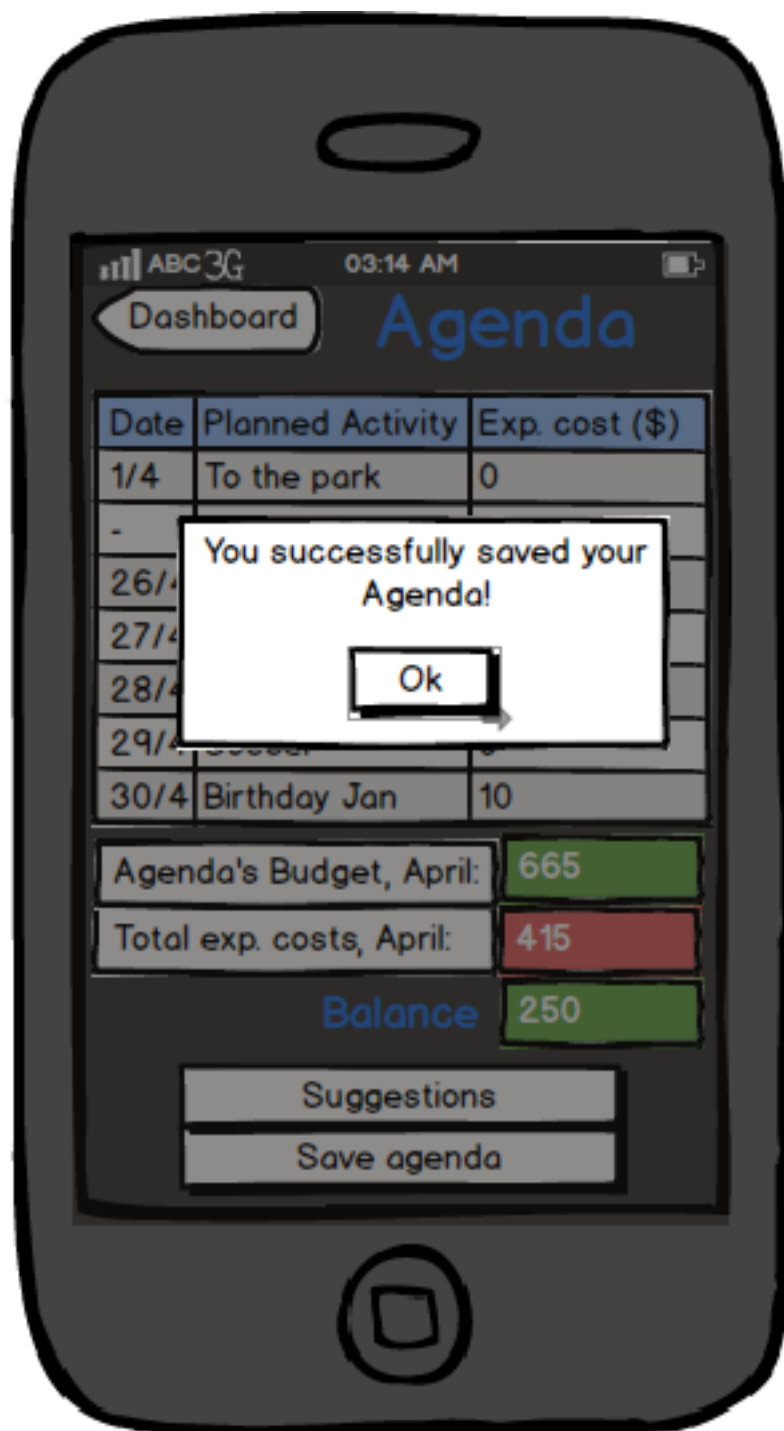

E.g. how people's variable expenses are divided into categories, when they spend the most, when they stayed within budget, how their spending varies monthly, what they spend the most on, etc.

By analysing your own spending you can learn from past spendings and possibly change your spending in a positive way. This could help people reach certain financial goals quicker.
